Term Two Week One

STOP PRESS EDITION!!!

Welcome back to our second school term for 2016, starting with this shortened week. Lots happening this term, and I've included a Term Planner to help you get organised. Our Bicentennial celebrations continue, with our school drama/musical production set down for Thursday night, June 23rd, under the COLA. We plan an innovative event, with our audience sitting in the centre of the COLA, and a performance space at either end. We hope you can join us for this series of historical scenes from our 200 years, performed in a unique and very entertaining format. We host a visit by our former student (and contributor to our school history book To Climb The Hill) Senator Arthur Sinodinos this Friday, calling in to run a workshop for Year Six on the processes of democracy. With Stage Three students bound for Canberra in the last week of the term, to study government, his visit is timely. It seems that our Canberra trip might take up the last days of the election campaign, so it could be an exciting time to be in our capital.

I welcome Mr Daniels to the school, in our third Assistant Principal role, and note that the selection process for the Principal position will also take place during Term Two, with the new Principal beginning the role in Term Three. Mrs Enright is taking KM while Mrs Miller enjoys four weeks of long service leave, and we welcome her.

Our Mothers' Day stall will be held Friday next week, May 6th, with lots of enticing goodies on sale to suit mums of all tastes. Send some money if you want to make a purchase.

We finished last term with very effective meetings between teachers and parents in our interviews, and I am anxious to keep those lines of communication open. Please let your child's teacher, or me, know if you have concerns about school issues, or if you just want to share a "good news" story.

Our ANZAC service takes place today at 12.30, and parents are invited along. This Newsletter will go back to normal Tuesday publication next week. Enjoy the busy term.
